The purpose of the Biblical Studies, Christian Ministries, and Philosophy Department is to provide students with a solid understanding of the foundation of the Christian faith to enhance any vocation; to prepare for church, para-church, or cross-cultural ministry; or to prepare for graduate study. This preparation is two-fold: First, the department provides a significant portion of the “faith” side of the integration of faith and learning by teaching four foundational core courses required of the entire student body. These four courses (BIB 110 and 210, REL 313, and PHI 413) are sequenced with each successive course serving as the prerequisite for the next. As a whole, these foundational core courses are designed to equip students with enough theological and philosophical substance to be able to integrate biblical truth within their respective disciplines as well as think and live “Christianly” in our post-modern world. A.W. Tozer said, “The history of mankind will probably show that no people has ever risen above its religion, and man’s spiritual history will positively demonstrate that no religion has ever been greater than its idea of God.” Thus, the ultimate goal of the foundational core courses taught within this department is that the student know and love God with all his or her heart and mind (John 17:31; Luke 10:27) and become more Christ-like in thought, speech, and action (Romans 8:29).

Second, the department offers four majors—Biblical Literature, Christian Ministries, Philosophy, and Youth Ministry—to prepare students who will demonstrate competence in biblical, educational, and philosophical truth in preparation for graduate studies and lifelong servant/leadership roles in professional Christian ministries. In addition, eight minors are offered in Biblical Languages, Biblical Literature, Christian Ministries, Philosophy, Intercultural Studies/Missions, Applied Missions, Youth Ministry, and Ethics. These majors and minors are designed to complement other majors, and consequently, students are encouraged to consider adding a second major or a minor from the BSCP department to enhance their primary program of study.

Many students within the department choose to take advantage of Taylor’s affiliation with Jerusalem University College (JUC) and spend a semester studying in Jerusalem. Men and women anticipating seminary study should also select other electives in their undergraduate course of study that encompass the world of ideas, nature and human affairs. Other overseas academic trips are offered in January for Foundational Core credit. They include Israel (BIB 110 or 210 equivalencies), Greece and Italy (BIB 210 equivalency), and Turkey (REL 313 equivalency).

Biblical Studies

The Biblical Studies program is designed for students who desire a robust intellectual understanding of the foundation of the Christian faith. In the process of the program, students study the biblical text and explore various approaches to understanding it. The goal is that the student understand the traditional view of the biblical text and why it has endured, and be able to evaluate alternative explanations critically.

Students who take Biblical Literature major anticipating graduate study and professional ministry should also take an introductory course in philosophy and logic and be able to read at least one theologically significant foreign language. The primary language is Greek, although Hebrew is also recommended. Students who plan to pursue seminary study should seek the counsel of the department faculty and consult with the appropriate denominational authorities to determine which graduate school(s) would best prepare them for their anticipated career. Early in their senior year, students should correspond with the school(s) to which they intend to apply.

Christian Ministries and Youth Ministry

The purpose of the Christian Ministries program of Taylor University is to provide a foundation for students who are pursuing careers in church, para-church ministry, or graduate school. In addition to the Christian Ministries major and Youth Ministry major, students often pursue one of the following interdisciplinary areas of concentration: youth ministry, children's ministry, ministry leadership, intercultural ministry, urban ministry, camping and recreational ministry, administrative ministry, or music ministry. The Christian Ministries program at Taylor University is characterized by a whole-person focus. Courses balance theory and practice as the biblical, theological, historical, philosophical, and educational foundations of ministry are explored. Spiritual formation in the context of a learning community is emphasized. Students learn collaborative thinking, planning, programming, and evaluation strategies while they are encouraged to identify and use their spiritual gifts in ministry. Students are encouraged to study in an off-campus program for at least one semester.

Students may apply for admission to the Christian Ministries and Youth Ministry program upon completion of CMI 100 and 262 and one semester of experience in a departmentally approved ministry. Students are considered for acceptance if they meet the following criteria: major GPA of 3.00; cumulative GPA of 2.50; at least one semester of experience in a departmentally approved ministry; and an interview with members of the Christian Ministries and Youth Ministry faculty.

The application process includes the following components: (1) complete a written application; (2) submit letters of recommendation from a pastor, ministry supervisor, and for residential students, a residence-life staff person [nonresidential students must provide an additional character reference]; and (3) participate in an interview with the Christian Ministries and Youth Ministry faculty.
